

As an amatuer radio operator I'm very concerned about the interference Power Line Communications might cause for HAM operators. We amatuers have a significant investment in the equipment we've purchased in pursuit of our hobby. History has also shown the value of amatuer radio opertors in emergency communication situations. Interference from PLC would hinder our ability to provide emergency communications and take away from our enjoyment of the hobby.

Sincerely,

John Chubick - KB9LNS